This 911T Targa was completed January 1971 and delivered new in the USA where it hit the roads at the end of June. It was optioned with the Comfort Group package that included alloy wheels (5) and tinted glass, as noted on its Porsche Certificate of Authenticity.

It stayed in California for a long time at the beginning of the 90's. After this the car was imported to the Netherlands on the 18th of June 2002 where it was restored over the coming years. It received new silver paint, new carpet, brakes were overhauled and the engine received a lot of attention as well.

After this the car was sold to the current Belgian owner on the 19th of November 2005. He's a real Porsche passionate and no expenses were spared to carefully maintain the car in the best possible condition; with the records to prove it.

Showing just over 7,500 miles from the restoration, recent service works include a new set of tires, oil, filters spark plugs,... Incremental improvements have been fitted over the years to bolster the performance, comfort, and reliability of the car. These additions include a set of the all-important hydraulic Carrera timing chain tensioners, Turbo tie rods and a modern AM/FM stereo. In addition the original, correct muffler is still in place.

Reported to be a good runner, the long-time owner describes the car as starting easily, running smoothly and shifting through the gears as a Porsche should. Complete with numerous receipts and files documenting its history, COA, owner's manual, tool kit, jack, this long-nose 911 is ready for its next owner to take into the magnificent backroads and do some spirited driving.
